

Canadian Process Control Association
2024 CONFERENCE
MAY 23 - 25 | GATINEAU QC

HEAR FROM INDUSTRY LEADERS | CONNECT WITH YOUR PEERS

The CPCA annual conference is a must-attend for professionals in the process control industry to gather knowledge and network with colleagues who have a stake in building the sector. With a mix of education from thought-leaders and exciting social events, you will leave the conference better informed, connected and engaged in a host of new ideas to address challenges in the marketplace and learn how to adapt in an evolving industry.

CANADIAN PROCESS CONTROL ASSOCIATION

Four Points by Sheraton Gatineau-Ottawa

The 2024 CPCA Conference will be held at the Four Points Hotel by Sheraton Gatineau-Ottawa, a 25-minute taxi ride from Ottawa’s International Airport, across the street from the Canadian Museum of History and a short five-minute hop to Parliament Hill. The hotel is offering a special CPCA Group Rate of $235.00 + taxes for stays on Thursday through Saturday evenings. This rate is available if you book by May 1. One of Canada’s leading political journalists, he has spent more than 25 years on the Hill, covering eight federal elections, four prime ministers, and a big piece of Canada’s history. Fresh, funny, and authoritative, Wells speaks in both official languages on all matters of the day, from the nation’s position in the global economy, to the inside scoop on what’s really happening inside the Parliament buildings and beyond.
9:45 AM – 10:45 AM	Adapting to Industry 4.0 Ryan Kershaw Board Member, The International Society of Automation (ISA) While change tends to be the only constant in manufacturing, the pace of change increased significantly recently. The advent of Industry 4.0 and the new face of the workforce has made change a revolution rather than an evolution. How will instrumentation and controls fit into the new architecture and what will the next workforce be looking for from technology? This presentation will cover cloud, edge, AI, and the importance of data.

Conference Faculty

Stuart Ducoffe
Founder, e2r Solutions

Stuart is a seasoned employment and labour lawyer. He is the founder of e2r™ and Partner and co-founder of Woolgar VanWiechen Cosgriffe Ducoffe LLP, where he leads the employment and labour law group of the firm.

Jean-Pierre Giroux
President, Excellence in Manufacturing Consortium (EMC)

With over 20 years in manufacturing, JP is focused on ensuring the sector's future through youth engagement, succession planning, technology and skills solutions, and the adoption of green manufacturing. JP has also overseen EMC's development of new advanced skills solutions and certification programs for the Canadian manufacturing industry. His goal is to grow a more competitive manufacturing sector that supports Canadian businesses so that they can provide jobs and strong economic growth opportunities for communities across the country.

Ryan Kershaw
Board Member, Smart Manufacturing and IIoT Division, The International Society of Automation

Ryan is a manufacturing and industry professional who spent 20 years in the instrumentation and controls sector prior to moving to companies more focused on IIoT and Digital Transformation. This combination has provided Ryan with a unique mix of plant floor and boardroom perspectives, allowing him to view problems from both viewpoints. Ryan is currently an Account Manager with LNS Research, and prior to that spent almost a decade leading the Canadian sales efforts of the Process Analytics Division at Mettler Toledo. On the volunteer side, Ryan is a past Vice President of the Canadian Process Control Association, and has also worked with the International Society of Automation (ISA) for over two decades in many roles. Ryan's current work with ISA is as a board member of the Smart Manufacturing and IIoT Division and as a course developer for the Digital Transformation Training Program, where he has developed the Evolution of Automation and Introduction to ESG courses.

Scott McKnight

Research Associate and Adjunct Professor, Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto

Scott's research focuses on innovation and the energy transition, with a particular focus on China. His doctoral dissertation, on Oil-Sector Strategies of States in the Global South, compared the oil-sector strategies of Brazil, China, Ecuador and Mexico, where he also conducted extensive fieldwork. Scott earned an undergraduate degree in Public Affairs and Policy Management at Carleton University in Ottawa. He also worked as a state visit researcher for the Governor General of Canada. He later earned a Master's degree in International Relations (in Chinese) at the prestigious Renmin University of China in Beijing. After this, he spent two years there as visiting professor, teaching courses on Chinese politics, economy and foreign relations. He is a frequent commentator on Chinese politics and economy for media outlets in Canada.

Scott McNeil-Smith

Vice President, Manufacturing Sector Performance, Excellence in Manufacturing Consortium (EMC)

Scott has been a driving force in establishing programs and resources for EMC members, including EMC's Energy Consortium, Green Centre of Excellence, Workforce Development and Labour Market Intelligence (LMI), Cybersecurity, and others. His mission is to make exemplary contributions towards the success and prosperity of those around him, his work, his community and the stability, health, and security of his family. At EMC, he applies this philosophy to the strategic planning, design, and deployment of many industry-driven initiatives.

Paul Wells

Acclaimed Political Journalist

Nobody knows Ottawa better than Paul Wells. One of Canada's leading political journalists, he has spent more than 25 years on the Hill, covering eight federal elections, four prime ministers, and a big piece of Canada's history. Fresh, funny, and authoritative, Paul speaks in both official languages on all matters of the day, from the nation's position in the global economy, to the inside scoop on what's really happening inside the Parliament buildings and beyond.

For 19 years, Paul was the lead political columnist at Maclean's magazine. Prior to this, he was the national affairs columnist at The Toronto Star and has also written for the Globe and Mail and The National Post. Paul has won three gold National Magazine Awards and a National Newspaper Award, and has filed stories from 17 countries around the world covering the war in Afghanistan, the Charlie Hebdo shootings in Paris, and three US presidential election campaigns.

Today, Paul is a regular political commentator on both the French- and English-language CBC networks. He has also launched a subscription newsletter, which is already one of the most widely read political newsletters in Canada. His podcast, The Paul Wells Show, in partnership with the Munk School of Global Affairs and Public Policy at the University of Toronto was launched in 2022. He is also their inaugural journalist fellow-in-residence for the 2022-23 academic year.

A bestselling author, The New Yorker magazine called Paul "Canada's foremost Harperologist" with the release of his book on Stephen Harper, The Longer I'm Prime Minister. It is the only book to have ever won three major non-fiction book awards: The Shaughnessy Cohen Prize, the John W. Dafoe Book Prize, and the Ottawa Book Award.

Paul studied at the University of Western Ontario and the Institut d'Etudes politiques de Paris. He also sits on the Advisory Committee of the Glendon School of Public and International Affairs.
